

LA FOLLETTE AND PHILIPP IN HARMONY?

STATE G. O. P. PLATFORM CONVENTION PREPARED TO ENDORSE GOVERNOR AND SENATOR.

CROWD OUT DEMOCRATS

Anti-Catholic Organization Leases Senate Chamber, Forcing Democrats to Meet Outside of Capitol Building.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Sept. 19.—The dove of peace is hovering over the camp of the republicans who are together in platform convention here today. Last evening a meeting was held at the executive mansion, attended by progressive and conservative republicans, and considerable progress was made in drafting a platform.

The republican convention was called to order in the assembly chamber by Chairman A. P. Klotzsch of the republican state central committee.

An agreement has been reached and Senator Whitman of Highland was elected chairman to preside over the deliberations of the convention.

In all of the camps the utmost of harmony seems to reign, and it is expected that all the conventions will have completed their labors by nightfall. According to the best information, the republican platform will contain endorsement of Hughes and Fairbanks and the national republican platform.

The Endorsements. Endorsement of Governor Philipp and Senator Philipps for next June. Reaffirmation of the principles of the Philipp platform of 1914. Condemnation of President Wilson and the national democratic administration.

Condemnation of the Underwood tariff law. Endorsement of Senator La Follette. The democratic held their convention in the court house, John Cudahy of Milwaukee acted as chairman. The indications are that O. A. La Follette will be elected chairman of the democratic state central committee.

Lease Senate Chamber. An anti-Catholic organization has obtained the senate-chamber for a meeting today. The basement of the capitol was the only place where the democrats could hold their meeting. The law requires that the convention be held in the capitol. The leasing of the senate chamber was the means of making the democrats last night on the assembling of the platform convention. The democrats were seeking with anger over the developments.

The socialist party held its convention at the capitol. As far as the socialists were concerned, however, compliance with the law will be about all that will be done. Victor L. Barker of Milwaukee, said that it condemned the democratic administration for its preparedness movement. The platform was a mere discussion of preparedness and no standing army at all. Secretary Fred Ralfield of Milwaukee was to call the meeting to order. No information is available as to who was to be chairman.

Democracy Meets. The achievements of the national democratic administration were pointed out by the speaker. Cudahy of Milwaukee, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Cudahy acted as temporary chairman of the convention. He reviewed the work of the administration in detail. In his opening statement he said the administration had revised the tariff law, that the republicans had failed to do.

Mr. Cudahy told of the work of the administration for the benefit of many. He said the Clayton law in the interest of labor, and what the administration has accomplished in the labor law for children.

The Mexican situation was reviewed by Mr. Cudahy, and he declared that a vote for Hughes is a vote in the debt on the Mexican issue.

The German-American issue was brought into the limelight. He declared this issue to be wrong. "If allowed to continue, it will leave ears of bias and prejudice that will not soon be forgotten."

G. O. P. WOMEN TO TOUR COUNTRY ON SPECIAL TRAIN IN HUGHES' BEHALF

An innovation in political campaigning is to be introduced this fall when a number of well known Republican women will tour the country in a special train during the month of October in behalf of the Hughes candidacy. Among the prominent speakers and writers who will make up the party are Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Raymond Robbins, Mary Roberts Rinehart and Gertrude Atherton.

He declared that Governor Philipp has urged at all times the support of party platform and party candidates. The socialist party settled down to business without delay. Their platform condemns the democrats for the preparedness stand.

Democrats Criticize Blumfeld. The first order of business when the democrats met was the adoption of resolutions sharply criticizing Blumfeld for denying the use of the senate chamber, and giving it instead to an anti-Catholic society. The resolutions protest against the "discriminatory attitude and arrogant manner of refusal giving preference to the Guardians of Liberty over the democratic party."

The convention took a recess until 1:40 p. m. Following this the democrats adjourned to the county court house. The republicans were called to order by Cameron Frazier of Kenosha. The speaker, Mr. Frazier, in his opening speech, Mr. Hull, Black River Falls, was nominated as secretary by Senator Huber of Stoughton. He was unanimously elected. Senator Churchill of Milwaukee, the roll call was dispensed with. Fairchild then moved a platform committee be created composed of one member from each congressional district. The motion carried.

PRIVATE MOTORING DOOMED IN ENGLAND

English Car Owners Only Given Quarter of Amount Desired Due to Lack of Oil from U. S.

London, Sept. 19.—If American motorists feel troubled over the cost of gas for their buzz cars, let them listen to the Britishers' troubles and rejoice at their own good fortune. The British private motor car owner is unable to get the gas he wants at any price. When German submarines began torpedoing the oil tank ships from the United States, the British government ordered the oil tank ships from the United States to be sent to the United States. Consequently gasoline is so scarce in England that it is given out by card to car owner in very limited quantities.

Not only is the private motor car owner compelled to present his oil card whenever he wants to run his machine a few miles, but the little oil he gets is begrudged him. Many a motor car in its garage until after the war on this account. The government has allowed 60 percent of the amount of gas demanded by commercial car owners, 25 percent of the private motor owners' demand and 2 gallons a month for motorcycles.

RUSSIAN THOUGHT CZAR WAS BEATEN

Alien Seeking Naturalization Papers Startles Court by Saying Czar No Longer Exists.

Sheboygan, Sept. 19.—Seventy aliens applied to the circuit court here today for citizenship papers, which were granted. One applicant, a Russian, was questioned as to why he had renounced allegiance to Czar Nicholas, in making application for first papers, and to Kulschewsky, when he applied for his final papers. He started Judge Kerwin, when he replied: "Well, I came from Russia, and the czar was still ruling when I took out my first papers, but afterwards they told me the Germans had killed him. I belonged to the Russians, I no longer belonged to the czar, but to the Kaiser."

U. S. INCORPORATES LESSONS FROM WAR IN NEW BATTLESHIP

California When Torpedoed Will Be Able to Make Port—Foremost in Warcraft Construction.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Lessons of the European war, especially those taught by submarine torpedoes, have been so well analyzed by United States naval constructors that the new oil and electric superdreadnaught California will be able to make port of refuge in case of torpedo wounds, say navy engineers.

The 1022 blue-jackets who will man the battleship under 61 officers, however, probably will attend their adaptation between this and their fourteen inch guns, and some of the many electrical devices, such as the electric potato peeler in the galley, the electric-driven ice cream freezer, the electric dial-washing machine with a capacity of 1,000 dishes per hour.

Use of electricity on the California begins with her main engines, driven by motors supplied with power from turbo-propellers. There will be 28,000 horsepower. There will be practically no work done on shipboard directly by steam, and the "black gang" of trained men will have to burn coal per hour into every hungry furnace, will manipulate levers controlling oil-burners under the boilers. These latter will be the usual water tube type, but new methods of installation have been devised for practically all the California's engine and boiler-room equipment, it is said.

It is understood that the new ship will have two methods of construction. The bulkheads are to be of steel, but less rigid than the ordinary types. The resistance is said to have increased 25 to 30 percent.

A clipper bow, instead of the conventional navy ram, will distinguish the California, and will have two large masts bearing fire control platforms. Other characteristics are: Length over all, 624 feet. Breadth, 95 feet. Mean draft, 30 feet, three inches. Displacement (at this draft) 32,300 tons. Speed, 21 knots, (12 hours). Fuel oil capacity (normal), 1900 tons.

Armament. Twelve fourteen-inch, 50 calibre, breech-loading rifles. Four submerged torpedo tubes. Twenty-two five inch rapid fire guns. Four 6-pounder guns for saluting. Four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns. One 3-inch landing gun. Two 30 calibre machine guns. The guns of the ship will be mounted in three, in four heavily armored turrets on the ship's center line.

When Battleship No. 44 was assigned to the 3d fleet, the yard constructed the name California already had been assigned to No. 40, being built at the New York navy yard. The name of the latter was changed to the California, as named to Mare Island inasmuch as the California, it is believed, is destined to become the flagship of the Pacific fleet.

The armored flagship is the armored cruiser San Diego, which was called the California until the name was needed by the newly authorized battleships.

BURSTING DAM DOES ENORMOUS DAMAGE

Dam Breaks in Bohemia—Rushing Waters Sweep Away Much Property—Many Lives Lost.

London, Sept. 19.—Many lives have been lost and enormous damage has been caused near Gablonz, Bohemia, by the bursting of a dam in the valley at Weissensee, according to a dispatch to Reuters from Amsterdam. A telegram received from Gablonz.

The rushing water carried away numerous glass bottle factories, and it is feared there were many victims. The bridges were not destroyed, but are in danger of collapse. The damage is very great. Ten bodies of victims have been recovered and identified.

LOWEST DEATH RATE IS RECORD OF 1915

Preliminary Statistics Show a Rate of Only 13.5, Which is the Lowest Ever Recorded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 19.—The lowest death rate in the country's history is shown in preliminary vital statistics for the year 1915, made public today by the census bureau. The rate, 13.5 per thousand, is based on figures from twenty-five states and forty-one cities, from a total population of about 76,000,000. In 1914 the percentage of death was 13.6, the lowest rate up to that time. The average rate during the period 1901-'05 was 16.2.

FOUR OF GANG HELD FOR BLACKMAIL MAY NOT BE PROSECUTED

Federal Attorney Is Confident That Evidence Against Three of Those Arrested Is Conclusive.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Sept. 19.—Four members of the alleged $1,000,000 band of blackmailers may escape prosecution, federal officials admitted today, as they awaited the preliminary hearing set for two p. m. of the seven prisoners taken in a fashionable apartment hotel raid.

Mrs. Regina Clippner, a divorcee of Philadelphia, the government's chief witness, arrived early in the day under guard of federal agents, to appear against the alleged blackmailers. Her attorney, Clabaugh of the United States department of justice said he was confident Mrs. Clippner would identify Edward Donahue, Henry Russell and Mrs. Helen Evers, as directors of the organization.

The case against the others under arrest, Clabaugh said, "is doubtful. I am satisfied, however, of the guilt of the three named."

Russell, Donahue and Mrs. Evers are held under bail of $25,000 each. The others under arrest are James Christian, James Blane, Mrs. Donahue alias Chapman, and Mrs. Helen Evers. The bonds of these four were fixed at $5,000 each.

PRESIDENT STARTS ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Wilson Back From Funeral of Sister—Will Plunge Into Active Campaigning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 19.—President Wilson passed through here early today en route to Long Branch, N. J., from Columbia, South Carolina, where he attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Annie E. Howe, yesterday. He was due at Shadow Lawn late this afternoon.

The president expects to plunge actively into campaign plans tomorrow, and to be busily engaged until election day. From now on Mr. Wilson plans to make up for lost time and will meet the criticisms of Charles E. Hughes, the republican presidential candidate, with attacks of his own. Outside of his speech of acceptance he has done no campaigning up to the present. He has mapped out several points he wants to discuss, including settlement of threatened railroad strike, the legislative record of administration of the Mexican problem and European questions, the record of republican party and subjects affecting progressives.

MISSOURI ROOKIE KILLED BY GUARD

Lieutenant Zullinger, ordered Clyne's rifle and the guard's revolver leveled his rifle at the lieutenant, whereupon the guard fired, according to military authorities. The name of the guard responsible for Clyne's death is withheld.

GERMANY NOT HUNGRY SAYS DUTCH DOCTOR

Physician Sent to Investigate Treatment of Prisoners Finds Other Interesting Facts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Amsterdam, Netherlands, Sept. 19.—Charged by the Netherlands Minister of War to investigate the latest German methods of treatment of soldiers suffering from nervous collapse and other ailments, Dr. J. J. van der Meer, a Dutch army medical service also took advantage of his stay in Berlin to look into the question of the alleged chronic underfeeding in the German army.

"I want for the purpose," writes Dr. Zeelandelaar, "to Wannee Lake, the popular family bathing resort, where I was able to inspect some thousands of Berliners of all ages, stripped to the buff. I only wish my city patients looked like them. The feeding in Berlin is said to be the worst in Germany, with the exception of the garbion towns. But if much privation has to be suffered, there is no real hunger. I took my meals purposely in the most simple eating houses. Food is much desired, but not more than there is still sufficient, and the poorest are cared for. The impression that I, and many with me, had that the war could not last much longer, because the soldiers of the people were suffering too much from underfeeding, is assuredly very exaggerated, if not entirely incorrect. Your German now takes his coffee without sugar, his potatoes without gravy, his soup is not so rich as it used to be, but he is still far from starving."

NO MEXICAN FAMINE DURING NEXT YEAR; SEASON'S CROP BIG

Department of Agriculture Issues Statement That Harvest Has Been Sufficient.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Mexico City, Sept. 19.—The production of foodstuffs in Mexico for the current year has obtained any chance of shortage, according to the department of agriculture. The crops are said to be not only sufficient to prevent famine but will make a practical independent importation of foodstuffs from other countries, although a certain amount of corn and flour will continue to be imported from other countries, although the value of the amount of corn and flour will continue to be imported into the northern states from the United States because of superior facilities for transportation to those localities.

The crops it is admitted, will not reach normal production but will be sufficient to allow a certain amount of exportation. The question of food supply is one of distribution rather than production, and it will be necessary to transport to the more barren states products from those localities where normal or nearly normal crops prevail. It is pointed out that while some undoubtedly died of starvation in the capital last year, this was not due to shortage of food but to the impossibility of adequately transporting wheat to those localities.

Within the last few months, according to the department officials, means of transportation have increased many fold. The railroads have been resumed not only with the United States border but between interior points and railroads which have been idle for an extended period have resumed operation.

The corn crop, the great Mexican food staple, will be good in all portions of the Republic except Zacatecas, Durango, Chihuahua and San Luis Potosi. In the other states disturbed conditions have not only prevented planting but have left the farmers with an inadequate supply of seed corn. In the other states, corn has been resumed, and the agricultural department also expects to add to the available supply a large amount of old corn hitherto held for large price advances.

Wheat crops according to departmental reports, while not a bumper one, will be sufficient to permit the exportation of old beans, the embargo on the foreign sale of wheat, which was removed by a decree of the First Chief, in connection with the bean crop, officials of the department declare that the shortage of crops in Durango is due solely to the speculation of Pancho Villa in the last two years. When the Constitutionalist movement took form in 1913, the rich farmers abandoned their ranches and fled to Mexico City. The poor people who had worked on these properties, however, proceeded to raise a tremendous crop of beans which were stored throughout the winter. It is estimated that the supply of beans is now owned by the city, is $76,936, or nearly as much as Beloit's, which includes the water property.

The total personal property valuation for Janesville is $4,014,256 against $3,169,243, almost a million dollars difference. The figures show that Janesville's assessment has been made approximately the true valuation as demanded by the tax commission and according to instructions of the Supreme Court. The assessment, it would seem on the face of the returns, has been much under-estimated.

County officials point out that the apparent increase will be somewhat wiped out when it comes to equalizing the county valuation for the purpose of apportioning state county taxes. The auditor of water department of assessment as to his estimate of true valuation for each district of the county will be taken as a basis, and then will be 10 percent. For the year 1915, Janesville was equalized at $12,982,000, 80 percent of true value, and Beloit was equalized at $13,867,000, 80 percent of true value.

Following is a summary of the assessed valuation of the county for 1916, and for 1915 in parallel columns:

ASSESSMENT FOR COUNTY IS BOOSTED

ROCK COUNTY'S ASSESSED VALUATION FOR 1916 IS PLACED AT $77,782,278.

BELOIT FIGURES LOW

Are Little More Than $125,000 in Advance Over 1915 While Janesville Is Assessed at $221,000 Increase.

Rock county's assessed valuation for the year 1916 is $77,782,278, according to the assessors' figures which have been compiled in the annual report of the county clerk on assessments. This is an increase of $1,622,572 over 1915, when the total assessed valuation of the county was $76,159,706.

Practically every township in the county has been raised according to the figures, while the cities of Madison and Evansville have been lowered. The assessment of the city of Beloit has been changed little, comparatively the increase being only $132,000, while Janesville has been boosted $221,000. The valuation of the three villages of the county has also been substantially advanced.

A study of the assessment figures for Beloit and Janesville reveals some interesting facts. It shows that the total value of Janesville is $221,000 more than Beloit's. It shows that the average value of farming property in the city of Janesville is $322.85 an acre, while the value of similar property in Beloit is but $180.25 an acre. Beloit has a total of 432 acres of farming land and Janesville 2,002 acres.

The study further shows that manufacturers' stocks in Beloit are worth only $759,700, while Janesville manufacturers' stocks are valued at $675,155. The Beloit figures include, of course, the estimates placed on the Fairbanks Morse and company's stocks, the Berlin company and the Beloit Iron Works, as well as other big factors of the merchants' stocks of the two cities shows that Janesville has a total valuation of $736,089 against Beloit's $440,644 for an assessed valuation of $395,445, while Beloit can scrape together but $250,385. It is pointed out, however, that one Beloit figure is in error.

The assessment against public utilities in Beloit is placed at $795,405, while the amount for Janesville, which excludes the properties of the water department which is now owned by the city, is $776,936, or nearly as much as Beloit's, which includes the water property.

The total personal property valuation for Janesville is $4,014,256 against $3,169,243, almost a million dollars difference. The figures show that Janesville's assessment has been made approximately the true valuation as demanded by the tax commission and according to instructions of the Supreme Court. ABE MARTIN

WISCONSIN TROOPS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY TEXAS CITIZENS

Harry Chamberlain, Son of Rock County Sheriff, Tells of Recognition Won By Badgers at New Braunfels.

Henry Chamberlain, son of Sheriff A. C. Chamberlain, writes to his father from Camp Wilson, San Antonio, where he is serving in Company L of the First Wisconsin Infantry. In his letter, dated Sept. 18, young Chamberlain tells of the recognition and appreciation accorded Badger militiamen by the citizens of New Braunfels, Texas, where the Wisconsin troops were encamped for a time. He says:

"While the Wisconsin brigade was in camp at Landa's Park, at New Braunfels, Texas, thirty miles from here, the people praised them for discipline and courtesy. They sent a letter to Captain Richardson praising the Wisconsin boys. The Illinois fellows were so noisy that the owner of the park said he was glad when they left. When the Wisconsin troops left he said he wished they were going to stay here longer."

The letter referred to by Private Chamberlain was written by the mayor of New Braunfels. A copy of it has just been received by the Gazette from Sergeant George A. Griffiths, Wisconsin Provisional Ambulance Company, who took orders to the statement of an Illinois townsman which appeared several weeks ago in the columns of the Gazette. Griffiths writes:

"I am a member of the Illinois guards who wrote you that the Wisconsin troops did not make good on the trip to Leon Springs, misinformed you. The Wisconsin troops arrived for the first night's stop at a place called the Little Hill, one and a half hours ahead of the scheduled time of the Illinois troops at the same place, two weeks prior to our arrival. We closed up will please find a copy of the letter from the mayor of the city of New Braunfels, Texas, which will speak for itself."

The letter in question follows: General L. T. Richardson, Camp Landa.

Dear Sir:—As mayor of the city of New Braunfels, I desire to express to you, and through you to your officers and troops, our satisfaction and pleasure in having the Wisconsin troops in our city during the encampment here. I am pleased to say that no finer body of men has ever visited us and the Wisconsin troops have won our lasting regard and high esteem by their soldierly bearing as men.

It is especially pleasing to say I have no knowledge of either rowdiness or intemperance in any of your men, a fact which you and the citizenship of your state should be proud of. Texas welcomed you and your brave men when the Mexican war cloud, for a brief time, shadowed our country, so again would we of New Braunfels, and even more gladly the many Wisconsin men as civilians in our midst, when the sunshine of peace has again kissed our fair land.

Hoping that both you and your troops may return safely to the peaceful confines of your own great state, and trusting that this brief acquaintance of Texas and Wisconsin may but strengthen our common bonds of patriotism, amity and good will, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
CHAS. ADAMS, Mayor.

Young Chamberlain writes that the hikes which are given the militiamen are rather severe. We go on these hikes in heavy marching order," he says, "which means that we carry a pack weighing sixty-three pounds, gun and side arms. They usually march us for fifty-five minutes and then we rest for ten minutes and then we march on our way to Austin, Texas, Saturday morning. They will give us seven days to make this hike, which is a distance of eighty miles. After making these hikes we have dandy shower baths at the bath houses."

Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. Yates and Mrs. David Hagan, 315 Palm street tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Members and friends of the circle are invited. Mrs. F. O. Humphrey, Pres.

INCREASE PENSIONS ON A BASIS OF AGE

Widows Must be 70 Years of Age to Secure $20 Benefits Provided by Ashbrook Law.

In reply to inquiries regarding the provisions of the Ashbrook bill, which was recently passed in law providing for increased pensions for widows of civil war veterans, it is pointed out that only those widows who were lawfully wives of officers or enlisted men in the army, navy, or marine corps, during the period of his service, or those widows of veterans now on the roll or "hereafter to be placed on the pension roll and entitled to receive a less rate than hereafter provided, who have reached or shall hereafter reach the age of 70 years, are entitled to the $20 a month pension.

Section 2 of the law states: That any widow of an officer or enlisted man who served in the civil war, whose name was placed on the pension roll and entitled to receive a less rate than hereafter provided, who have reached or shall hereafter reach the age of 70 years, are entitled to the $20 a month pension.

Section 3 describes that such widows who have remarried as described in section 2, who were married prior to June 17, 1905, shall have the right to pension under the provisions of this act to commence from the date of filing application with the bureau of pensions. Widows of veterans who were married since 1905 will not be entitled to pension, according to the interpretation placed upon the law.

Young Man in Court Tells Judge He Bought Pair of Shoes for Sixty and Sold Them for Fifty

Although he told the police, they said that he stole a pair of shoes from a west-side shoe store yesterday, Albert Baldwin of Minneapolis, one of the latest additions to the jail, is in municipal court this morning to tell Judge Maxfield that he had bought the footwear from a youth whom he knew as "Smitty." Baldwin was charged with a drunkenness charge and pleaded guilty. Questioned about the shoes he said he bought them from "Smitty" for sixty cents and sold them for fifty. The court said he had never been in court before on a more serious charge than drunkenness.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Last night the teachers of the local high school assembled for their annual picnic. About thirty made up a party which went by launch to the cottage of Louis Amerpohl on the Rock river, which was very kindly offered to the faculty for the occasion. This affair is in the nature of a "mix-up," being given by the old teachers for the new ones, and providing a most enjoyable opportunity for getting acquainted in a purely social way.

Modern Gullivers

Some men stand out from the crowd as Gulliver towered over the Lilliputians. By superior energy, activity and reserve strength they predominate.

Feeling right within, is one of the fundamentals of physical and mental strength, and is largely the result of proper nourishment.

Grape-Nuts

is the logical food for thinkers and doers. It contains all the nutritious elements of whole wheat and malted barley, is partially predigested, and supplies an abundance of energizing nourishment without overworking the stomach. It also includes the vital mineral salts of the grain which are lacking in white bread and many other cereal foods.

There's a able help for many in Grape-Nuts.

RACINE WATER CASE HEARING DATE SET

Oral Argument Will Be Heard by Railroad Commission Oct. 2.—Other Complaints Pending. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Sept. 19.—An argument is made at the railroad commission that the oral arguments in the Racine Water company purchase case will be heard by the commission on Oct. 2, here. The Racine Water company, which was scheduled for a hearing last Friday, was adjourned. The application of the Augusta Light and Telephone company, scheduled for a hearing here Wednesday, will be heard sometime in October at Augusta.

M. B. Hobbs of Madison has filed a complaint against the Wisconsin Telephone company asking a discontinuance of the practice of holding long lines while long distance telephone calls are being completed. He charges that when a long distance call is placed the operators hold the line and it is impossible to use the line further for local calls until the long distance call has been disposed of. The ruling in this case will probably affect the service and rules of the company in all of the cities over the state.

HELD FOR STRIKING JANESVILLE COPPER

Police After Two Months Finally Capture Lawrence Griffin.—Says He Is Not Guilty.

Since early in July the police department has been continually on the watch for Lawrence Griffin, a local young man. He was wanted for the alleged resisting of an officer making arrest and for striking and attempting to assault Officer Harry Smith when the latter was arresting Charles Arnold, a railroad man. Griffin escaped at that time and on two other occasions, at one of which he was searching a building from cellar to roof to apprehend him.

He was caught in an Academy street saloon yesterday, however, and appeared in municipal court this morning. He was willing to plead guilty to the resisting an officer, portion of the charge, but denied that he had struck or attempted to assault the officer. Smith in court said he did not see Griffin until Monday morning, meanwhile Griffin went to jail in default of $300 bail. His young wife and his mother of Beloit were in court.

Military Adviser Selected for Chinese Post Favored for Job by His Own People. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Tokio, Sept. 19.—Great satisfaction is felt in Japan over the choice of a Japanese military officer to be military adviser to the Chinese government. Lieut. General Nobusumi Aoki has been selected by China for the post on account of his extensive knowledge of that country. In Japanese military circles his is popularly known as "The General of China." During the revolution which preceded the death of President Yuan Shi-kai he was sent to Shanghai on special mission. He was once military attaché to the Japanese legation at Peking and has traveled extensively in the interior. He is regarded as an able diplomat as well as a soldier. Appointment of Japanese advisers was contained in the demands made by Japan upon China last year. That the Chinese government should now select a Japanese military adviser is regarded here as indicating the arrival of more friendly relations between Japan and China. The recent clash of Japanese and Chinese troops at Chenchiatung, in Mongolia, where 17 Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded, has created little excitement in Japan and there is every indication that the difficulty will be settled peacefully.

Continuing the Early Autumn Showing of Wooltex Coats and Suits

The many well-dressed women who have paid a visit of inspection to see the new Wooltex apparel have confirmed our opinion that styles were never handsomer and fabrics perhaps never quite so beautiful as they are this season.

And there is much gratification over the opportunity to secure such handsome new coats during these early days, when women are so anxious to change from their summer garments to the beautiful new apparel of autumn.

Wooltex coats express absolute correctness in style, with the highest character of tailoring and finish known to women's ready-to-wear garments.

Every coat guaranteed by the manufacturers, and us, to give completely satisfactory service.

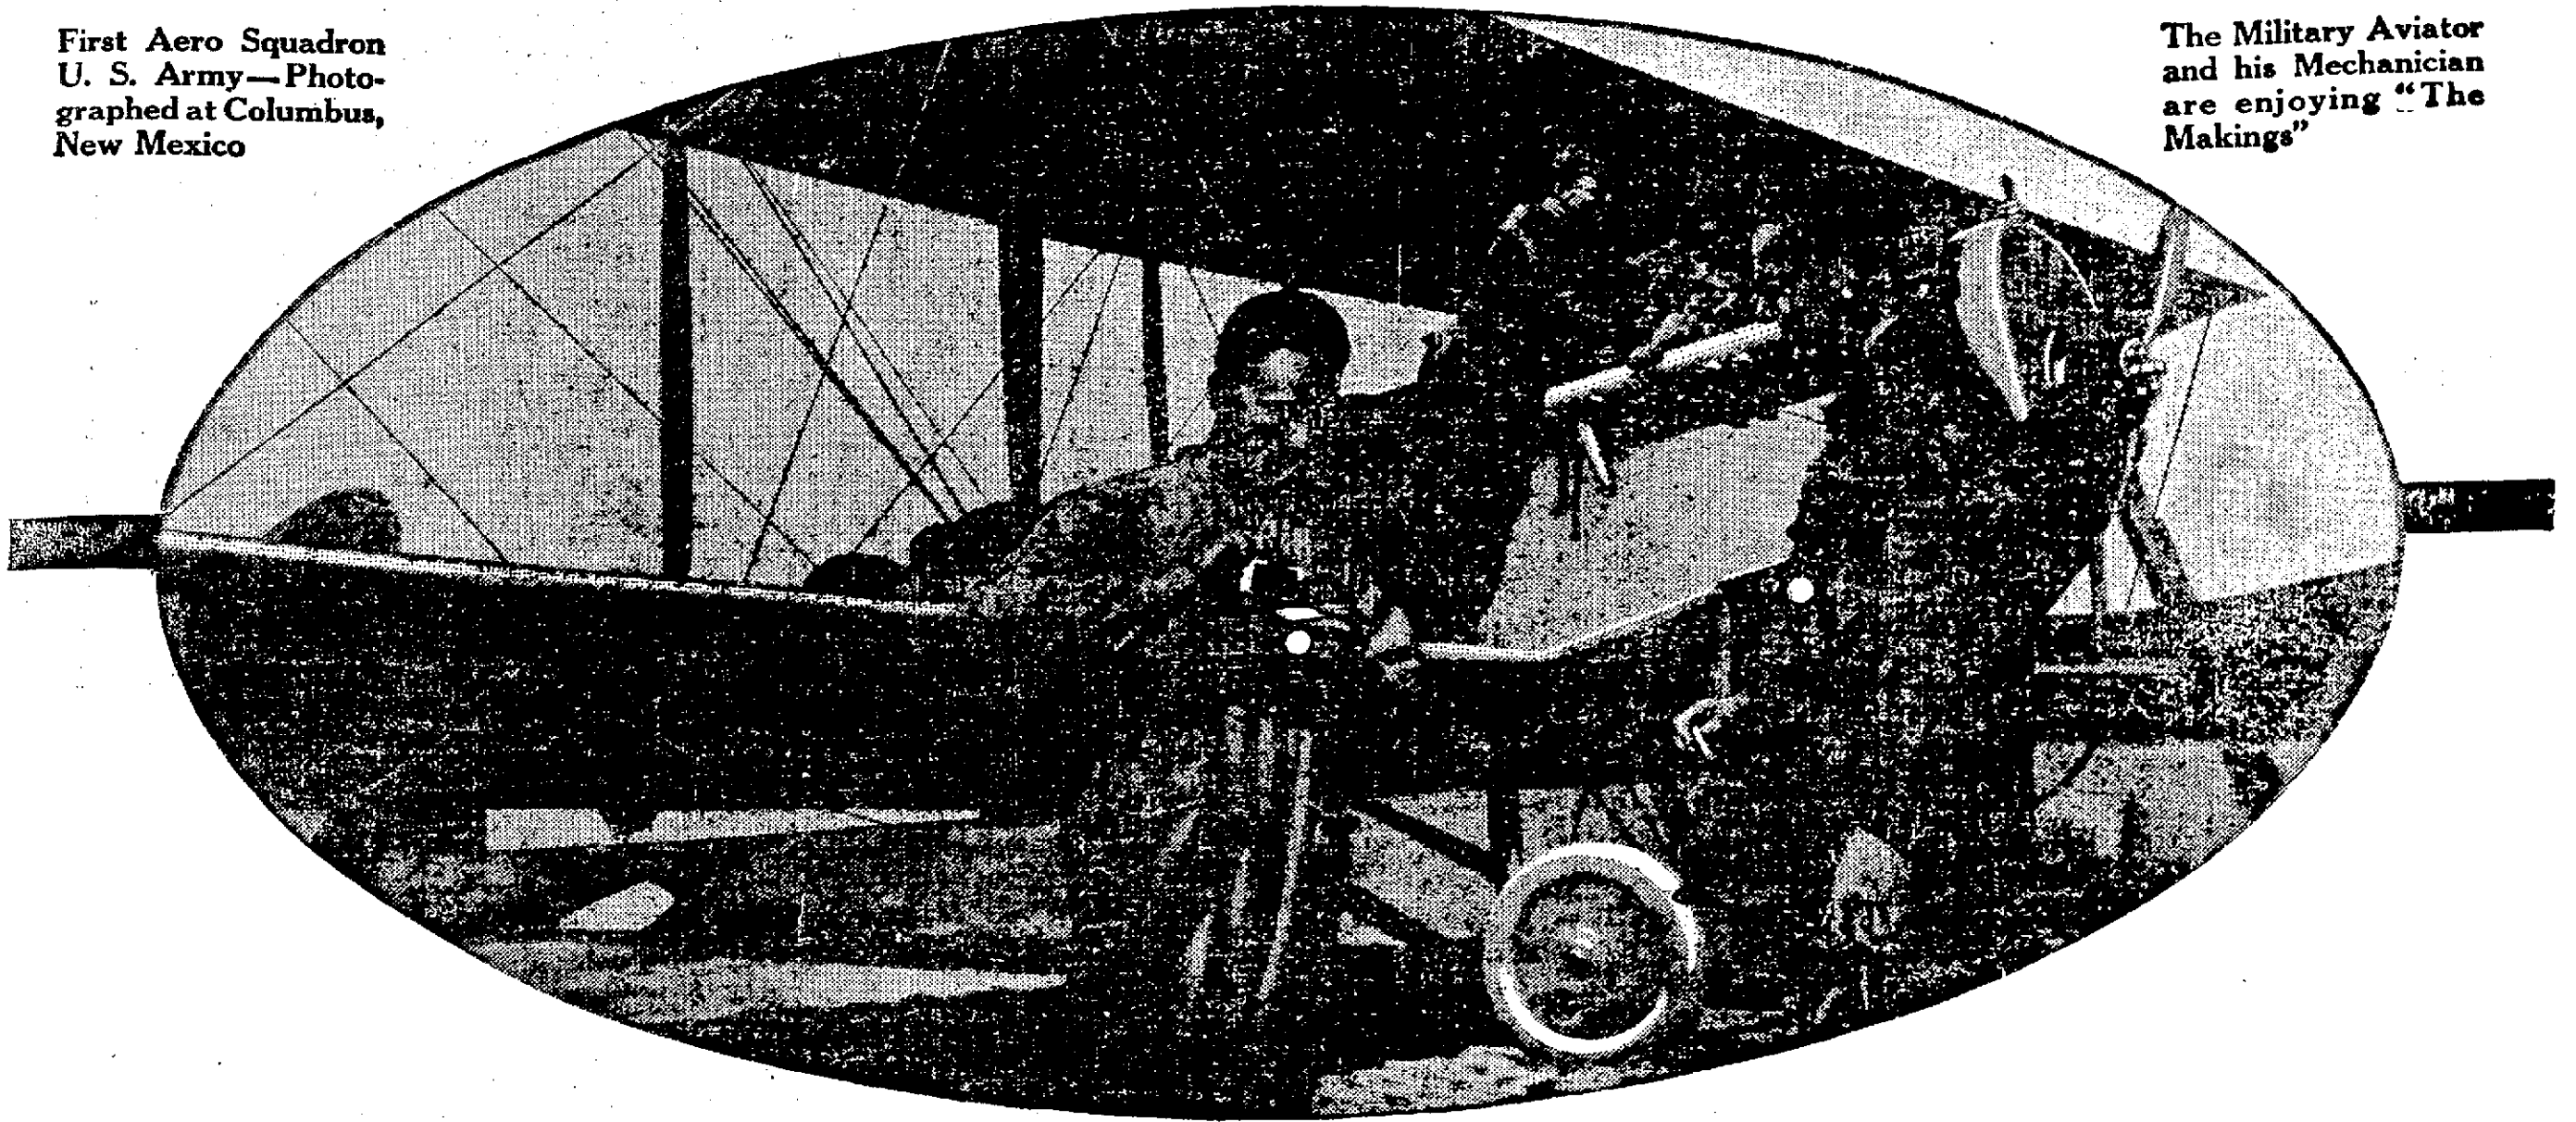

In buying Wooltex apparel there is security, both as to its correctness in fashion and the durability of the garment; and prices throughout are moderate.

TOBACCO CONTRACTS.

To the average layman it would appear that the recent freeze was going to bring about numerous legal entanglements relative to the contracts signed by the growers and accepted by the buyers as to their crops.
 Possibly not, but it would seem that while the growers have lost considerably by the freeze the buyer is also a loser to a large amount and that an adjustment will have to be made or there are going to be numerous lawsuits. Of course the bulk of the crop now in the fields is ruined, or damaged to such an extent that it is not worth what was put in a few days ago, and the question is, who is to stand the loss? The crop, the majority of it was sold in the fields, many acres subject to the buyer's risk. Does this include a freeze or not is the question. However, the next few days will tell the tale and meanwhile we must hope the loss is not as great as was first anticipated.

BEST SUGAR.

Rock county farmers are to have the opportunity next year of growing beets for the local sugar factory again. It means hundreds of thousands of dollars paid out in salary and for material and should stimulate business materially. Employment for hundreds of workers just when work is scarce is something to be considered and it is hoped that the farmers of the district will be sufficiently interested in their own and their neighbors' welfare to see that a good sized acreage is assured the factory on its re-opening. The community of the future wars will tend to keep the beet up on sugar and consequently it will be a paying venture to open the local factory even though the price on beets has risen since it was closed two years ago when the democrats in congress placed an embargo on the American farmer by placing sugar on the free list. The resumption of raising beets in quantities will be welcomed without a doubt by local farmers and it is certain the results will be money in their pocket.

TODAY'S ACTION.

At Madison today are gathered the candidates of the various state and legislative offices in the state on all the political tickets. Some will not be present who had expected to be prominent and whose presence was not anticipated. There will be no friction in the democratic or prohibition conventions and it is to be hoped there will not be any in the republican gathering. The people of the state have spoken so decisively on the question of the state policy to be pursued during the coming two years that it would be folly to try and handicap the platform that will be presented at the outset on the part of the "tax-eaters" and the "tax-savers" can certainly afford to be lenient and overlook past differences in the interest of harmony and the election of state and national tickets in Wisconsin this year.

Harmony with capital letters should prevail, and it is to be hoped that no note of discord will be sounded during the two days the convention is in session. From top to bottom the state and legislative ticket should be supported and the republicans of the various political beliefs should see the handwriting on the wall in the selection of Philipp by the majority ticket to know that it was the Philipp policy and confidence in his direction of state affairs that brought about this condition. Philipp has made good and in doing so he has only convinced his friends of what they promised the state two years ago.

Political sandwiches of Wilson, Williams and La Follette will not gain anything for the detractors of the governor and they cannot the men who vote into the firm belief that the "tax-eaters" really deserve their cognor and are afraid of what may happen to their plans if they do not make desperate efforts to handicap the wishes of the people by hindering the passage of a solid, wise state platform. The convention will not be stammered—too many men of strong moral standing belong to the "taxsavers" to permit it—so let us have harmony.

WILSON IN PERPETUITY.

The Wilson administration is going out of office in a few months; but it will leave some very tangible evidences of its rule behind, which will long affect the mind and the pocketbook of the nation.

In order to meet a part of the expense necessitated by Wilson's summary surrender of the national guard to the Mexican border, the new revenue bill provides for the issuance of $130,000,000 in Panama canal bonds, which will run for fifty years, which will bear three per cent interest, and the proceeds of which will suffice to pay the cost of the mobilization only until the first of January, 1917. In consequence of six months and a half of this bill of Wisconsin willingness,
 the country, for the next fifty years, will be doomed to pay $3,900,000, annually, together with the face of the bonds—$130,000,000 of principal, plus $195,000,000 of interest—making $325-000,000 as the sum total of this little souvenir of the nation's folly in permitting Wilson to slip into the hands of the so-called "eight-hour-a-day bill" which the democratic president and the democratic congress have just passed in craven surrender to a small minority of railroad employees will entail additional expense to transportation in the handsome sum of not less than $60,000,000 a year—upon which equal to three per cent annually upon the enormous sum of two billion dollars, which the public must pay in perpetuity.

When Senator Ollie James raised his stentorian voice at Shadow Lawn to tell Wilson that he had been renominated, he said something about the place which the president will hold in the public memory. It will indeed be a unique place. It will be the place of a man who penalized the country in perpetuity to the payment of staggering sums of money in the vain hope that he might secure for himself four years more in which to bedevil the nation's affairs.

EXPERT OPINION.

The Nation, in its last week's edition, sums up the recent Wisconsin primary election in the following manner:

"A mixed result in the primary election in Wisconsin leaves uppermost the fact that La Follette, who in April won a majority of the delegates to the republican convention with humiliating difficulty, will probably again be senator from that state.
 The state is normally so republican-the majority for that party in the republican election of 1914 was 21,000 votes, the victory of the old radical over his conservative republican opponent, Malcolm G. Jeffris, will be regarded as equivalent to a final choice.
 The personal strength of the man alone gave him his majority, for the Philipp, or stalwart, faction won without difficulty on the state ticket.
 Wisconsin is thought with the La Follete brand of progressivism in home affairs; but there is at least one aspect in which the country at large may find pleasure in his renomination.
 The hardest fight against him was made because, as the Milwaukee Sentinel put it, in voting for the Underwood tariff, he misrepresented his own state and forfeited the support of all concerned for the prosperity of the state. Even the rural papers could write (we quote the Dodgeville Chronicle) that 'at a critical hour he turned his back to the farmers and voted to make their products free.' In the event of general republican success, we shall have no doubt, enough in the senate without another from La Follette's state."

"JUST ROCKING ALONG."

"We are indebted to A. B. Garrel-son of the brotherhoods for this terse and expressive summing up of the railroad situation," says the Buffalo News.
 "It's just rocking along!"
 "The same phrase is applicable to most things that have called for immediate action on the part of the chief executive of this country and his conferences—we have just been 'rocking along.'"
 "The Lusitania matter—'It's just rocking along!'"
 "The Mexican situation—'It's just rocking along!'"
 "British mail seizures—'still rocking
 along!'"
 "Pork barrel appropriations—'still rocking along!'"
 "Civil service preferences—'still rocking along!'"
 "High cost of living—'It's just rock-ing along!'"
 Yes, all these "kiddies" have been rocked to sleep to the croonings of the chief rocker and tucked away for the time being.
 But they will not remain so motionless much longer. They will wake up and demand attention.
 And they won't be put off with soothing syrup, either.
 The "just rocking along" period is about over.

Persons wise beyond their years in weather lore inform us that the coming winter will be a mild one and point to the lack of nuts on the trees and heavy fur on the beasts that roam out of doors. This may be true but it is safe to say the average householder will burn just as much coal as ever and empty just as many loads of ashes when spring comes.

Hughes is to be the guest of Wisconsin, Wednesday, and many will listen to his reasons why the republicans should win this year out of curiosity. What the majority of the voters want is the personal contact with the candidate himself.

Milwaukee street has been torn up so many times to lay conduits, repair sewers, fix gas pipes, relay water pipes and for the Lord knows what else, that it is now a veritable "rocky road to Dublin." Some day we will learn the whole street will have to be re-laid and then wonder why.

Tomorrow marks the invasion of politicians into badgerdom to gain votes for the republican party. Let the democrats will send their "big guns" into the state and then we may expect fur to fly between now and the November election time.

 ville Traction company promised to Psychology of the Game.

 When the zephyrs blow
 And the posies grow,
 And their fragrance perfumes the air,
 When the future's bright,
 And all nature's right,
 And the weather is warm and fair;
 When there's naught of strife
 And pure joy is in the air,
 And the world works is to the good
 When the birds sing
 And most everything
 Is behaving just as it should;
 When folks wear a smile
 Of a happy style
 And refuse to reduce the same
 Even by an inch
 It's a mortal cinch
 That the home team has won a game.

Isn't it a Joke?

"That's all right."
 "I haven't time to argue the mat-

 "I never paid for him, yet, and I'm

 "That's all right. You put him off if you think that's the way to get

 "You ought to know the rules of this line, ma'am. How old is that "I don't know. I never saw him be-you'd better ask that old gentleman on the seat. He got on at the last

As she came to the garden gate with him, the beautiful girl said with a sweet giggle, "By the way, Philbrook, I suppose it will hardly do for you to call on me any more. I've been engaged to Ronald Swivels ever since last night."
 For a long moment Philbrook was silent. Then he said, "Oh, you have?"
 Just three words, but to the girl they seemed fraught with terrible significance, for the young man had drawn a revolver from his handkerchief and was toying with the trigger as the moonlight shone wickedly on the cold gleaming barrel.
 "Philbrook!" she breathed. "Not so near the house, please!" She shut her beautiful emerald eyes in terror.
 When she opened them again, he was handing her the revolver.
 "Give him this," he said pleasantly.
 "Give it to Ronald Swivels. I've shot eight young cats at various times while I've been sitting on your porch waiting for you, and maybe Ronald can shoot the rest of them."
 And raising his hat with pleasant smile he strode out of her life.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am almost eighteen and in love with a young man who dislikes me very much. I smoke. Of course, it would be better for me if I stopped, but I don't do.

you see any reason why the girl should snub me, as she has often said she does? She told me that we could not be friends. I am allowed the same liberties? Do you think she really loves me, as she often said she does?

BROWN EYES. Probably the girl does not love you or even like you. If she goes with some boys who smoke and not you, if the others were hard on you, it might be that she thinks boys who smoke look like "cheap sports." There may be a chance that you smoke cigars and the others do not. If I were you I would give up smoking at last until I became of age. It is a bad habit which costs a lot of money and if indulged to any extent injures the health.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Last year when I started to school I sat first to a girl friend of mine. At first we became real friends, but when I came to school her friendship died and she cared but very little for me. I love her and it went hard with me. She would not speak to me. I always helped her all I could and loved her very much. Do you know of anything I could have done to make her dislike me? If so, please tell me. The last time I saw her she waved at me very friendly. Do you think there is any chance of her loving me? I think the world of her. Would you advise me sitting next to her this year?

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

WHY IS A STROKE?

Apoplexy, hemorrhage into the brain, or a stroke of paralysis, is one of the factors which are increasing the risks of being alive after forty. Apoplexy, heart disease, Bright's disease, and diabetes appear to be conspiring to kill us off just at the time of life when we should be at our best. These four diseases are degenerative. It doesn't seem reasonable that we should immediately have reached maturity. It is a necessary feature of life. Surely not. We have no business degenerating so early. It is the fault of our mode of living. We live to live, and often succeed in doing it.

An artery in the brain would never rupture and bleed if it were not for things like these. It is the fault of things like these. Moderate beer drinking, heavy smoking, the continual poisoning of autointoxication, the severe poisoning of lead, syphilis, and cerebral infection, diseases like pneumonia and typhoid fever, and finally over-eating, especially an excess of animal nitrogen, meat, they are the causes of apoplexy. Apoplexy is a very serious disease. It is the direct cause of arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries.

Hard work, gross manual labor, has been charged with contributory influence, but there is no sound evidence to support the charge. Neither hard mental nor hard physical work hurts the arteries or favors apoplexy. Apoplexy is the result of over-eating, over-drinking, over-smoking, the resort to stimulants to keep the body going when natural fatigue would show the imperative need of rest, and in the end, the result of the direct causes of arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries.

Men are four times more frequently subject to apoplexy than women, not because men work harder, but they don't but because men sin more. Most cases of apoplexy occur after

(2) Am I too young at sixteen to take a girl to a class party? (3) How can I learn to wait, as I am absolutely inexperienced and somewhat bashful?

VERY ANXIOUS.

(1) A boy very often bores a girl by loving her too much. This was probably true in your case. I certainly do not think she cares for you even if she did wave. Have a seat somewhere else this year.

(2) If it is your class it would be all right, or if students as young as you are admitted.

(3) Take lessons from a dancing teacher.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow and lately he has stopped taking me and takes my younger sister. Both of us like him, and she won't give him up. As long as I went with him first I think I should and so does my mother. What can I do to make her give him up?

BLONDE. The boy will go with the girl he likes best no matter what you do to make him go with you. If he gets an idea that you are trying to keep your sister from going with him, he will certainly never go with you again. Just act as though you don't care and he may of his own accord decide to go back to you again. If I were in your place I would be too proud to want him to come back.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Should a girl help a boy put on his coat? (2) Should the girl take the boy's things or tell him where to put them?

(1) It is not etiquette for a girl to assist a boy when he puts on his coat. She should tell him where to put them.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Does cold cream make hair grow on the face? Some cold creams cause hair to grow on the face, but there are many that are guaranteed not to. Have your druggist recommend one that will not.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I was away this summer and I met a young man who wants me to write to him. I got a letter from him. How long should I wait to answer it?

THANK YOU.

A week or two.

They Can Never Eat Apples Au Naturel.

They mustn't hold pennies in their hands because of germs, they can never buy cheap candy; if they eat an apple it must be pared and cut in sections by the nurse-maid. I think that is just typical of their existence—that inspected, pared, cut up apple.

Of course I am sorry for the children in the hideous vacant lot. But I'm sorry too for the children who never are allowed any of the unpared apples of childhood.

Household Hints

OYSTERS CATALAN.

Put in a double saucepan a heaping tablespoon of butter and two teaspoons of grated Parmesan cheese. When melted and smooth, add four tablespoonfuls of cream and meat of a good sized crab, cut very fine. When creamy and boiling hot, drop in two dozen blue point oysters. The moment they crinkle serve on hot buttered toast placed on very hot plates.

OYSTER OMELET.

Allow one egg for six medium sized oysters. Place the oysters in a pan and let simmer long enough to draw out the liquor, then drain and chop fine. Beat the eggs very light, yolks and whites separately. To the yolks add a little salt and the liquor of each egg, a little salt and the minced oysters. Beat together, stir in the whites lightly and turn into a hot buttered pan. As soon as the oyster side is brown roll up and turn out on a platter.

SMALL OYSTER PIES.

For a picnic take a half the size of an ordinary dinner plate, butter it and cover the bottom with a puff paste as for pies, lay on five or six select oysters, or enough to cover the bottom of the pan, and season with a little salt and plenty of pepper, spread over this an egg batter, and cover with a crust of the paste, making small openings in the top with a fork. Bake in a hot oven fifteen to twenty minutes, or until the top is nicely browned.

THE TABLE.

Russian Fagots.—One and one-half pounds round steak ground, six medium-sized onions ground one cup uncooked rice, salt and pepper to taste. When thoroughly mixed, prepare enough cabbage leaves for the number of persons that are to be served. Pour boiling water over the leaves so they will wilt, then drain. Take meat and onion mixture, roll in cabbage leaf, fasten securely with toothpicks. Cook "fagots" in a kettle with one quart cooked tomatoes, slowly, for two hours. Add a little boiling water when the tomatoes keep from sticking. When done serve on platter with tomatoes poured over. Excellent with mashed potatoes.

Vegetable Chicken.—Two cups boiled and mashed beets, pulp (green or dried), one cup dry bread crumbs, 1½ cups finely chopped peanuts, two eggs lightly beaten, one onion chopped fine, half cup strained cornmeal, one cup melted butter, few grains of celery salt or sage (as preferred), one cup sweet milk. Combine ingredients in order given and mold into four round cakes. Bake one hour or until delicately browned.

Sorosis Cake.—One and one-half cups brown sugar, mixed with two tablespoons cocoa, half cup butter, one egg (white and yolk beaten separately), half cup hot water with one level teaspoon soda, half cup sour milk, one level teaspoon each of nutmeg and cinnamon, and allspice, three-fourths cup raisins, pinch of salt, teaspoon vanilla, and two cups flour. May be baked in loaf or layers.

Cocoa Cake.—Two eggs, two cups brown sugar, two teaspoons cocoa, one-half cup boiling water to dissolve the cocoa, scant one-half cup of butter or lard. Stir it up good and add half cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla, two cups flour, two rounding teaspoons baking powder. Cake frosting: One cup brown sugar, one teaspoon cocoa, one level teaspoon butter, one-half cup sweet cream.

Chocolate Cream Pudding.—Heat one quart milk with four level tablespoons grated chocolate; add three level tablespoons cornstarch dissolved in a little cold milk, and a pinch of salt; sweeten to taste. When cooked thick flavor with vanilla. When sufficiently cool pour into a glass dish. Serve very cold with whipped cream piled on top. Be careful so you won't get too much salt in it.

Macaroni With Cheese Sauce.—Break a box of macaroni in pieces and cook two inches long. Cover with two quarts boiling salted water and boil until soft. Pour off water until there is just enough to cover it. Cut half pound cheese in small pieces, add to macaroni with salt and pepper and dash of paprika and a tablespoon of butter. Let simmer until cheese is melted and macaroni is covered with a cheese sauce.

GINGLES' JINGLES

VACATION.

Vacation time it seems is slannned by every guy who takes a hand, at blowing for a time, who says "goodby" to all the boys, pulls from the city's dust and noise, the country hills to climb; who takes his rod and beats it, to catch the fish are always gone, are always where he ain't, he tries and tries throughout the day, no chance, the fish are all away, but sticks until he's faint. And then he rambles for the camp, arrives exhausted by his tramp, a sad, disgusted geek, next day he beats it out once more, to that same old far distant shore, and each day for a week, he drills with vengeance and a wish, that he will some day land a fish, but hopes are all in vain, he packs his duds and flutters back, and at his old job takes a whack, speeds up his rusty brain. And starts to column and to pan the country and its coat of tan, the place he does not like, but next vacation time he's there, he hits 'er up again for fair, for that same country. Ernest Single

Anita Stewart Says

MY GARDEN. My garden is a forest ledge. Which older forests bound; The banks slope down to the blue lake edge.

Then plunge to depths profound! —Emerson, "My Garden."

Of course no home would be complete without a garden—and my garden is no exception. Maybe that's why I have devoted so much time to my flower-beds.

My heart was set upon an old-fashioned garden with the sweet-scented blossoms that we read of as being the background for the romance of Colonial days.

Day after day I tramped in and out of the florists' shops in order to find just the old-fashioned blooms which I wanted. And I wanted to bank our gravel walks.

And when the warm weather opened the different color buds my effort was amply rewarded. And sure there is no more quaint or beautiful garden in the surrounding country than my own. Of course, that is really a matter of taste. Some of you might prefer the more cultivated garden to my galaxy of humble old favorites.

Training a Husband

Marian is Learning How to Wring Concessions From Her Husband.

"Marian, who has been meddling with the papers on my desk?" The angry words were hurled down the stairway like stones.

"I have not destroyed a single paper, Morris. The room had to be cleaned and—" "You know what my wishes are with regard to the papers? Why were they not respected?" interrupted Morris. "Marian, who has been meddling with the papers on my desk?"

"Morris, you will find all the papers that were on the top of the table in the kitchen tray on the right-hand side. Not one was destroyed."

"Destroyed?" snorted the irritated man. "As if that were all that necessary. As I suppose you think it nothing that I have to spend hours hunting for papers that should be right where I could lay my hands on them."

"Morris, neither you nor anybody else could lay hands on most of those papers. They were a foot deep and so covered with dust that the study was a gasping place. That is why I don't care how deep they were, nor how much covered with dust. They were just as I wanted them, and I see no reason why they could not be laid alone and help you find them."

"I'll come and help you find them," said the cheerful wife. "You will do no such thing. As if you would know which paper I wanted. That is the trouble. You do not realize the importance of those things. A scrap of paper with a note on it may look like a bit of waste paper and still be very valuable. Marian had followed me to the study and was gazing curiously at the littered table that she had so carefully cleaned that morning."

"Nothing was destroyed," she began, but he held up his hand for silence.

"Couldn't you have some drawer to shove that mess into, so it would not look so disorderly? I am surprised that you are willing to have your study look so. You are neat about most things," she continued. "Please go away," he snapped. "You have made trouble enough."

"I wonder if he would kiss like a hot iron if I should touch him with my wet finger. The idea of making such a fuss because his papers were moved when none of them were destroyed," she thought scornfully.

COOKIES, CRULLERS, JELLIES AND JAMS AS VOTE GETTERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Riverhead, L. I., Sept. 19.—"If it takes an overcoat for an elephant, one ingenious man once asked another, how far would you have to drop a cranberry to break a shingle?" But the question here today is: "If it takes a quart of strawberry jam to make one suetcrust in Binghampton, how many old Dutch crullers does it take to make a suetcrust in Riverhead?" The answer will be given tonight by the suetcrust makers who are to make suetcrusts for women at the county fair here and their sisters slathering strawberry jam and jelly around to do the same thing up in Binghampton.

UNPAID APPLES.

"No look at those poor children!" said my companion. On a vacant lot, surrounded by the dismal-looking tenements of the suburban slums, a dozen children were playing.

Across the street was a big bakery and two old men and women were standing in the vacant lot. About them the children were playing, darning each other to hold jumps, some between the shafts acting as horses, others on the seat driving.

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR.

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, or with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they take up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of cantbox, (which they got from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

Everyday Wisdom

WELL, I SUPPOSE IT HAS A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF VALUE AS A REFERENCE BOOK.

The orderly, useful, immaculate line-up of words in a dictionary is sometimes pretty maddening. We have just been sitting here looking at a dictionary, and thinking through it makes us mad. We feel as if it would like to take a stick and stir it all up and jumble it around and get it out of order. We would like to spill all the words out and then pour them all back in, all in the wrong place. There is just one thing that stops us, and that is the reflection that there are not many books like the dictionary. A dictionary has to be a dictionary, and you do not like it. We can go away to some other part of the house. But there are a lot of people and a lot of things like the dictionary. They have got themselves all alphabetized. They have made poor readers out of themselves. A dictionary, while it is full of words, and there are people who are all full of system and do not say a thing. We guess it is thinking of such people that makes us mad at a dictionary. There is not any warmth in a dictionary, that is the trouble. Fifteen words in a dictionary do not mean anything. Fifteen words in Bush Tarkenton, or somebody, can mean more than a dictionary a foot thick. There is no juice about fifteen words in the dictionary. And some people go to college and read books and get themselves in such order, like a dictionary, that they lose their warmth. Colleges and books ought to send people away with juicy personalities. Along with order, there should always be juice. Order that is order only is not much. (Tomorrow, something else.)

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to Smith Drug Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

Suddenly she snatched a rifle off the wall and backed away, her strong hands fumbling at the lever. And she jerked it down, throwing a shell into the chamber and cocking the weapon. Duane leaped upon her. He struck up the rifle as it went off, the powder burning his face.

"Jennie, run out! Get on a horse!" he said. Jennie flushed out of the door. With an iron grasp Duane held to the rifle-barrel. He had grasped it with his left hand, and he gave such a pull that he swung the crazed woman off the floor. But he could not loose her grip. She was as strong as he.

"Kiss! Let go!" He tried to intimidate her. She did not see his gun thrust in her face, or reason had given way to such an extent to passion that she did not care. She cursed. Her husband had used the same curses, and from her lips they seemed strange, unsexed, more deadly. Like a tigress she fought him; her face no longer resembled a woman's.

He heard a cry from outside—a man's cry, hoarse and alarming. It made him think of loss of time. This demon of a woman might yet block his plan.

"Let go!" he whispered, and felt his lips stiff. In the grimness of that instant he relaxed his hold on the rifle-barrel. With sudden, redoubled, irresistible strength she wrenched the rifle down and discharged it. Duane felt a blow—a shock—a burning agony tearing through his breast. Then in a frenzy he jerked so powerfully upon the rifle that he threw the woman against the wall. She fell and seemed stunned.

Duane leaped back, whirled, flew out of the door on the porch. The sharp crackling of a gun halted him. He saw Jennie holding to the bridle of his bay horse. Eucro was astride the other, and he had a Colt leveled, and he was firing down the lane. Then came a single shot, heavier, and Eucro's ceased. He fell from the horse.

A swift glance back showed to Duane a man coming down the lane. Chess Alloway! His gun was smoking. He broke into a run. Then in an instant he saw Duane, and tried to check his pace as he swung up his arm. But that slight pause was fatal. Duane shot, and Alloway was falling when his gun went off. His bullet whistled close to Duane and thudded into the cabin.

Duane bounded down to the horses. Jennie was trying to hold the plunging bay. Eucro lay flat on his back, dead, a bullet-hole in his shirt, his face set hard, and his hands twisted round gun and bridle.

"Jennie, you're nerve, all right!" cried Duane, as he dragged down the horse she was holding. "Up with you now! There! Never mind—long stirrups! Hang on somehow!"

He caught his bridle out of Eucro's clenching grip and leaped astride. The frightened horses jumped into a run and thundered down the lane into the road. Duane saw men running from cabins. He heard shouts. But there were no shots fired. Jennie seemed able to stay on her horse, but without stirrups she was thrown about so much that Duane rode closer and reached out to grasp her arm.

Thus they rode through the valley to the trail that led up over the steep and broken Rim Rock. As they began to climb Duane looked back. No pursuers were in sight.

"Jennie, we're going to get away!" he cried, exultation for her in his voice.

She was gazing horror-stricken at his breast, as in turning to look back he faced her.

"Oh, Duane, your shirt's all bloody!" she faltered, pointing with trembling fingers.

With her words Duane became aware of two things—the hand he instinctively placed to his breast still held his gun, and he had been shot through the breast far enough down to give him grave apprehension of his life.

They did not stop climbing while Duane tore a scarf and made compresses, which he bound tightly over his wounds. The fresh horses made fast time up the rough trail. From open places Duane looked down. When they surmounted the steep ascent and stood on top of the Rim Rock, with no signs of pursuit down in the valley, and with the wild broken fastness before them, Duane turned to the girl and assured her that they now had every chance to escape.

"But—your wound!" she faltered, with dark, troubled eyes. "I see—the blood—dripping from your back!" "Jennie, I'll take a lot of killing," he said.

Then he became silent and attended to the uneven trail. He was aware presently that he had not come into Bland's camp by this route. But that did not matter; any trail leading out beyond the Rim Rock was safe enough. What he wanted was to get far away into some wild retreat where he could hide till he recovered from his wound. So he turned off on a trail that appeared seldom traveled.

Soon after this move he became conscious of a further thickening of his senses. He felt able to hold on to his saddle for a while longer, but he was failing. Then he thought he ought to advise Jennie, so in case she was left alone she would have some idea of what to do.

"Jennie, I'll give out soon," he said. "No—I don't mean—that you think. But I'll drop soon. My strength's going. If I die—you ride back to the main trail. Hide and rest by day. Ride at night. That trail goes to water. I believe you could get across the Nueces, where some rancher will take you in."

Duane could not get the meaning of her incoherent reply. He rode on, and soon he could not see the trail or hear his horse. He did not know whether they traveled a mile or many times that far. But he was conscious when the horse stopped, and had a vague sense of falling and feeling Jennie's arms before all became dark to him.

When consciousness returned he found himself lying in a little hut of mesquite branches. It was well built and evidently some years old. Duane felt weak and had no desire to move. Where was he, anyway? A strange, intangible sense of time, distance, of something far behind weighed upon him. He thought he heard a step and listened, but he felt tired, and presently his eyes closed and he fell into a doze.

Awakening from this, he saw Jennie sitting beside him. In some way she seemed to have changed. When he spoke she gave a start and turned eagerly to him.

"Duane!" she cried.

"Hello. How're you, Jennie, and how am I?" he said, finding it a little difficult to talk.

"Oh, I'm all right," she replied. "And you've come to—your wound's healed; but you've been sick. Fever, I guess. I did all I could."

Duane saw now that the difference in her was a whiteness and tightness

"Fever? How Long Have We Been Here?"

of skin, a hollowness of eye, a look of strain.

"Fever? How long have we been here?" he asked.

She took some pebbles from the crown of his sombrero and counted them.

"No." "Have you slept any?" "A little. Lately I couldn't keep awake."

"I should think not. You've had a time of it sitting here day and night nursing me, watching for the outlaws. Come, tell me all about it."

"There's nothing much to tell," she replied, simply. "We must have ridden forty miles that day we got away. You bled all the time. Toward evening you lay on your horse's neck. When we came to this place you fell out of the saddle. I dragged you in here and stopped your bleeding. I thought you'd die that night. But in the morning I had a little hope. I had forgotten the horses. But luckily they didn't stray far. I caught them and kept them down in the gorge. When your wounds closed and you began to breathe stronger I thought you'd get well quick. It was fever that put you back. You raved a lot, and that worried me, because I couldn't stop you. Anybody trailing us could have heard you a good ways. I don't know whether I was scared most then or when you were quiet, and it was so dark and lonely and still all around. Every day I put a stone in your hat."

"Jennie, you saved my life," said Duane.

"I don't know. Maybe. I did all I knew how to do," she replied. "You saved mine—more than my life."

Their eyes met in a long gaze, and then their hands in a close clasp.

"Jennie, we're going to get away," he said, with gladness. "I'll be well in a few days. You don't know how strong I am. We'll hide by day and travel by night. I can get you across the river."

"And then?" she asked.

"We'll find some honest rancher."

"And then?" she persisted.

"Why," he began, slowly, "that's as far as my thoughts ever got. It was pretty hard, I tell you, to assure myself so much. It means your safety. You'll tell your story. You'll be sent to some village or town and taken care of until a relative or friend is notified."

"And you?" she inquired in a strange voice.

Duane kept silence.

"What will you do?" she went on.

"Jennie, I'll go back to the brakes. I don't show my face among respectable people. I'm an outlaw."

"You won't go back among these terrible men? You, with your gentleness and sweetness—all that's good about you? Oh, Duane, don't—don't go!"

"I can't go back to the outlaws, at least not Bland's band. No, I'll go alone. I'll lone-wolf it, as they say on the border. Never mind about me, Jennie."

CHAPTER X.

In three days Duane was able with great difficulty to mount his horse. During daylight, by short relays, he and Jennie rode back to the main trail, where they hid again till he had rested. Then in the dark they rode out of the canyons and gullies of the Rim Rock, and early in the morning halted at the first water to camp.

From that point they traveled after nightfall and went into hiding during the day. Once across the Nueces River, Duane was assured of safety for her and great danger for himself.

At last, far ahead over a barren mesquite-dotted stretch of dusty ground, he espied a patch of green and a little flat, red ranch-house. He headed his horse for it and turned a face he tried to make cheerful for Jennie's sake. She seemed both happy and sorry.

When near at hand he saw that the rancher was a thrifty farmer. And thrift spoke for honesty. There were fields of alfalfa, fruit-trees, corrals, windmill pumps, irrigation-ditches, all surrounding a neat little adobe house. Some children were playing in the yard. The way they ran at the sight of Duane hinted to both the loneliness and the fear of their isolated lives. Duane saw a woman come to the door, then a man. The latter looked keenly, then stepped outside. He was a sandy-haired, freckled Texan.

"Howdy, stranger," he called, as Duane halted. "Get down, you an' your woman. Say, now, air you sick or shot or what? Let me—"

Duane, reeling in his saddle, bent searching eyes upon the rancher. He thought he saw good will, kindness, honesty. He risked all on that one sharp glance. Then he almost plunged from the saddle.

The rancher caught him, helped him to a bench.

"Martha, come out here!" he called. "This man's sick. No; he's shot, or I don't know blood-stains."

Jennie had slipped off her horse and to Duane's side. Duane appeared about to faint.

"Air you his wife?" asked the rancher.

"No. I'm only a girl he saved from outlaws. Oh, he's so pale! Duane, Duane!"

"Buck Duane!" exclaimed the rancher, excitedly. "The man who killed Bland an' Alloway? Say, I owe him a good turn, an' I'll pay it, young woman."

The rancher's wife came out, and with a manner at once kind and practical essayed to make Duane drink from a flask. He was not so far gone that he could not recognize its contents, which he refused, and weakly asked for water. When that was given him he found his voice.

"Yes, I'm Duane. I've only overdone myself—just all in. The wounds I got at Bland's are healing. Will you take this girl in—hide her awhile till the excitement's over among the outlaws?"

"I shore will," replied the Texan. "Young man you ain't in any shape to travel. I'll take you in along with the girl, an' hide both of you till you can't travel."

A deacon who did not favor church bazars was going along a dark street when a footpad suddenly appeared and, pointing his pistol, began to relieve his victim of his money.

The thief, however, apparently suffered some pangs of remorse.

"It's pretty rough to be gone through like this, ain't it, sir?" he inquired.

"Oh, that's all right, my man," the "held-up" one answered cheerfully. "I was on my way to a church bazar. You're first, and there's an end to it."

On his return home the nobleman started for the spot. When he reached it he rubbed his eyes in amazement. There was the new stone wall, but he could see nothing towering up inside of it. He turned excitedly to his steward:

"Look here, where's the ruin, man?"

"The ruin, my lord?" replied the steward. "Oh, that old thing! Sure I used it to build the wall with."

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Q.—Why do stout people as a rule eat less food than thin people?

A.—Much of the food which we consume is burned up in the body and furnishes it with its necessary heat. Thin people cannot retain heat as well as fat people, and consequently must have more food for fuel purposes. In other words, a human furnace the fat man is more efficient than the thin man. His fat serves nearly the same purpose as he coating of asbestos placed around a heating device in order to save coal.

It is said that excessively obese persons can give rise to so much internal heat without the power of giving it off as to make too vigorous exercise extremely dangerous to them. This difference in the heat retaining ability between the fat and the lean accounts for the fact that many stout people have the envious faculty of keeping warm with comparatively little clothing in the coldest weather, whereas the thin man must do all sorts of stunts to keep from freezing.

Q.—When precisely is a food adulterated and when is it misbranded?

A.—According to the federal pure food and drugs act a food is adulterated:

1. If any substance has been mixed or packed with it so as to reduce its value or injuriously affect its quality or strength. Glucose-filled foods are accordingly adulterated.
2. If any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the article. Glucose-filled foods are accordingly adulterated.
3. If any valuable constituent of the article has been wholly or in part abstracted. White flour, degenerated cornmeal, polished rice, pearled barley, etc., are accordingly adulterated.
4. If it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated, or stained in a manner whereby damage or inferiority is concealed. Bleached flour, dyed foods of every kind, soda water, candy, cakes are accordingly adulterated.

6. If it consists of a diseased animal or vegetable substance or any portion of an animal unfit for food, whether manufactured or not, or if it is the product of a diseased animal or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter. Under this heading I have personally convicted over 200 food adulterators.

In cases of confectionery. If it contains terra alba (white clay), barytes (barium sulphate), talc, chrome yellow, or other mineral substances, or poisonous color or flavor, or other ingredients deleterious or detrimental to health, or any kind of opium, or spirituous liquor, or compound or narcotic drug. There is little of this abuse now to be found.

1. If it is an imitation of or is offered for sale under the distinctive name of another article. All artificially colored butter made to resemble the color of June butter is misbranded.

2. If it is labelled or branded so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser or purport to be a foreign product when not so, or if the contents of the package as originally put up shall have been removed in whole or in part and other contents shall have been placed in such package, or if it fails to bear a statement of the label of the quality or proportion of any drug. The country reeks with these misbranded foods.

3. If in package form and the contents are stated in terms of weight or measure they are not plainly and correctly stated on the outside of the package.

4. If the package containing it or its label shall bear any statement, design, or device regarding the ingredients or the substances contained therein, which statement, design, or device shall be false or misleading in any part.

RATE WISCONSIN 4TH IN BIG NINE FOOTBALL; FEW OLD MEN RETURN

Conference Critics Think Badgers Will be Lower in Race This Fall Than Ever in History.

Madison, Sept. 19.—Wisconsin is picked by gridiron critics to finish in fourth place in the football championship this coming fall. This prediction is due largely to the quantity and quality of the material that is at the present time available at Camp Randall. It is claimed that the Badgers have practically as good material as a year ago, but Minnesota, Chicago, and Illinois have more old men back, which gives those three schools the advantage.

The Badgers hope to place into the field this fall a line of backfield, and with a fair line should be able to hold their own among the top-notchers. Whatever the prospects are or will be, Wisconsin's prospects will be entered in the crucial battles, namely, the games with Chicago, Illinois and Harvard, Indiana.

Minnesota is picked to finish first because the Gophers have lost but five men. Illinois loses but five good men. Macomber being the nucleus for a 1916 title eleven. Chicago has a bunch of fighters left over from last fall.

The new coach, Dr. Paul Wittington, sat on the bleachers at Camp Randall yesterday afternoon, watching with interest the movements of the team in their practice. He remains reticent on all questions concerning the team. There is one thing certain about the Badgers, that is, there will be no official or first backfield. A set of backs will be used at various times to meet various conditions.

Madison. Other conference schools are offering all sorts of information concerning their respective chances. Wisconsin has nothing to offer, excepting mediocre material with which to build a well-balanced team. Cub Dink is out of school and is to aid in coaching the line this fall. Lynn Smith and Bow Byers are also out, as are Steve Ryan, George Simpson, Koch, Landry, Muck, Gardner, Pottinger and Bendie, star fullback on the 1915 Fresh team is ineligible, and Alvin Pugh, star guard, is ineligible.

Backs—Ray Eiler, Eber Simpson, Vaughn, McCreary, Wahl and Ole Olson. The basketball star guard. Fullbacks—Kreuz, Borg, Wiedenbeck, Thompson and Stark. Ends—Curtain, Paulie, Meyers, Elmore and Crummers. Tackles—Rosenberger, Koch (if eligible), Pitzer and Gray. Guards—Lancroft, Gardner (if eligible), Kieckhefer and Hike. Center—Gunderson.

The first game of the season is with Lawrence on October 7th, giving the coaches a little over a month in which to make up a team and place it in the field. On October 14th, South Dakota will face the Badgers at Camp Randall. A week later, the football season will be in full swing, with the Badgers to play against the Cornhuskers. The Badgers will then take place for the first time in the state of Illinois, where they will play against the Cornhuskers. The Badgers will then take place for the first time in the state of Illinois, where they will play against the Cornhuskers.

MORRIS MILLER

George Sisler, rated the best first baseman in either major league, has a foot-fault. It's the only minor shortcoming of which he is guilty and a veteran teammate has just noticed it. The star of the St. Louis Browns doesn't know how to stride across first base so as not to throw all his weight on one foot. Up to the present time he has been leaning down to the ground and leaning onto the base with one foot, in hope of beating the throw by a hair's breadth. The result is that his ankles are weak. Sisler's knees, too, have been under strain. Sisler doesn't change his stride and step on the bag for a more natural move. He won't last five years in baseball, said a player who is serving his ninth year in harness. "At least he will lose his speed and that's his greatest asset."

"That Jack Ryan has no 'business' in the Coast League and that he will win the pennant for the Los Angeles club if he keeps up his present work," is the declaration made by Manager Walter McGraw of the Portland, Ore., club. Ryan is without a doubt the best twifter in the league," McGraw says. "There isn't a pitcher who compares with him. I've seen them all work, and none of them comes tip to his standard as a hurler."

Some of them might win as many games for their club as Ryan, but when it comes to ready work, Ryan is in his class. Ryan is the hardest heater in the circuit to score runs on. A club might make a number of hits off him, but you'll notice that they don't score very many runs.

Commenting on a suggestion that with Jake Daubert returning to the game the Brooklyn club would still find use for Fred Merkle, a Brooklyn writer was reminded of an incident in Merkle's career. In 1909 the Giants had an exhibition game in Newark on Sunday with Joe McGinnis of Newark International. McGinnis was billed as the star for the Giants, and was the only pitcher in the squad. Rube was spiked badly while covering first in the first inning, and had to be taken to a hospital. No other honest-to-goodness pitcher was to be had, and Merkle volunteered. He pitched the remainder of the game, or eight and a fraction, innings, and allowed just one hit. Then McGinnis came in and McGraw for not living up to his contract to furnish a star pitcher for the exhibition.

When President Zeigler of the Western league decided to cut down the state of umpires from eight to five as a measure of economy, Olie Anderson made it easier by resigning and returning to his home in Texas. A Lincoln paper, commenting on the decision, said that the best rest of his work was that President Rourke of Omaha complained about his decisions in Omaha, as any umpire who would call them as they were in Omaha would have real merit.

St. Louis has been endeavoring to win a baseball pennant for thirty years. Charles A. Comiskey managed the champion Browns in the old American association when they won the championship in 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, capturing the world's series in 1886 by defeating Anson's Chicago Nationals in four games out of six.

"I would warn the ball player, and particularly the young boy, to eliminate the use of bandages," says Zack Wheat, "the head year I was in the national league I injured both my ankles in sliding to first in a game in Philadelphia. In a week I was able to play again with my ankles well bandaged, but they were not strong. They failed to gain strength as the season progressed and I feared that I might have to quit baseball, as I could see that I was sliding down and had the greatest difficulty in stretching my drives. Finally I took a tip from Joe Tinker and removed the bandages. In three days my ankles regained their normal strength and in a week my speed was as great as ever."

In former days John McGraw took keen delight in riding Heinie Zimmerman when his Giants met the Cubs. Mr. McGraw will have to pick another fellow to ride, now that H. Zimmerman has been traded to the New York Yankees. The checkered suits of the Jinks, Jeff Teague is probably seen with Heinie with his team. Jeff had lots of fun pitching to Zimmerman, the duel usually being a battle of wits.

Men From Ends of Earth Composed British Army In Its Latest Drive

British Front in France, Sept. 19.—The most drastic and picturesque battle of the British army in all its two years in France, was fought on Sept. 15. Here is the story of how all kinds of men from the ends of the earth, took part in this mighty conflict.

Men of Many Countries.
In the same dressing station this week, the correspondent of the Associated Press has seen Canadians, New Zealanders, English, Scotch, Irish, New Foundlanders and Americans.

These were some of the men of many countries who took part in the historic battle, and with their own hands inside those armored motorcars called "tanks," which are to the credit of a quiet officer of engineers. When the correspondent met this officer in London six months ago, and asked him what job he was on, he replied: "Sh! Sh! Don't tell." It was the "tanks," called the "Gordon Rouge."

Looking like a prehistoric monster, in a skin of modern armor, and with engines inside which took him across the field of shell craters, weaving its way with pythonic adaptability to all irregularities up to the door of the brigadiers' dugout.

Then the correspondent went over the ground which the Canadians had taken up to the edge of the village of Courcellette. Later they stormed the village. He met Canadians who came from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, but when he asked some of them what part of Canada they hailed from, they replied: "The same country as you do, the United States."

There were men with the accents of Missouri and New England, and others who on the soil of France hailed one another in the French tongue of Quebec.

Goat Over Ground Taken.
The correspondent went over the ground today, where they went to it, and saw where they stuck in trenches under shell fire, which they had gained after their second charge, and which were not in the original plan.

The night before the battle the staff officers in charge of that branch of the Canadian objective. No home sacrifice fly, to use baseball language, but they made a home run and brought in all the men on the bases. They gained their first objective, an uninterrupted dash absolutely on time. There was the trench which the "Byng boys" held on the morning of the 15th, and the correspondent saw it today.

And ahead of it, shell craters were so thick that you could step from one to another. Having taken their objective, their part was finished. But General Byng decided, despite the complicated and timetabled methods of the modern offensive, that he could go further. The commander of British corps of all kinds from cockneys to the clerks, stockbrokers and farmhands of the new army, made the same decision. So they worked in conjunction, as everything in these big moves must be co-operation and teamwork.

Canadians Determined.
"Confound cost and everything else," said the Canadian, their nerves strained to the breaking point in their determination to make good on their first offensive. When the word came, they were ordered to charge. There was a spectacular moment when, sometime after the battle had opened, word ran down the line that the "guards were going in." Guards are the crack regiments of the British regular army and are steeped in the aristocratic tradition. When they come to the offensive they must show the others the way through, although the body of a peer is no less valuable to the army than that of the cockable to the trench for the "lid," as the slang phrase is for mounting the parapet of the trench for a charge. It was the supreme moment for the guards "to live up to their traditions."

British Front in France, Sept. 19.—The most drastic and picturesque battle of the British army in all its two years in France, was fought on Sept. 15. Here is the story of how all kinds of men from the ends of the earth, took part in this mighty conflict.

Men of Many Countries.
In the same dressing station this week, the correspondent of the Associated Press has seen Canadians, New Zealanders, English, Scotch, Irish, New Foundlanders and Americans.

These were some of the men of many countries who took part in the historic battle, and with their own hands inside those armored motorcars called "tanks," which are to the credit of a quiet officer of engineers. When the correspondent met this officer in London six months ago, and asked him what job he was on, he replied: "Sh! Sh! Don't tell." It was the "tanks," called the "Gordon Rouge."

Looking like a prehistoric monster, in a skin of modern armor, and with engines inside which took him across the field of shell craters, weaving its way with pythonic adaptability to all irregularities up to the door of the brigadiers' dugout.

Then the correspondent went over the ground which the Canadians had taken up to the edge of the village of Courcellette. Later they stormed the village. He met Canadians who came from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, but when he asked some of them what part of Canada they hailed from, they replied: "The same country as you do, the United States."

FIFTEEN HUNDRED RUSS ESCAPE FROM GERMANY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Amsterdam, Netherlands, Sept. 18.—No less than 1,500 escaped Russian prisoners-of-war are stated to have so far reached the neutral country from Germany. Owing to the deficient shipping connections with England lately, over 150 are now waiting to sail for that country enroute for home to join their regiments, according to the Amsterdam Telegraph.

BELGIANS STILL LOYAL; DEFEY GERMANS EVERYWHERE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 18.—The Belgian town of Liere has been fined 50,000 marks because, on the occasion of the recent national day, some of the inhabitants had hoisted a big Belgian tricolor on the top of an oak tree. In order to defend the tree against German assaults, they had surrounded it with barbed wire.

An achievement in Turkish tobacco blending

We are proud to be the firm that has brought about this important new development in cigarette enjoyment—a cigarette that satisfies, and yet is mild!

This cigarette—Chesterfield—is an outgrowth of long, earnest effort on the part of this, the largest cigarette manufacturing concern in the United States. The mild, yet satisfying Chesterfield blend is not the result of happy chance. It is one of the results of our many years of cigarette experience—of the heavy volume of our purchases of cigarette tobacco—of the prestige and advantages these enormous purchases give us in securing the choicest leaf from the tobacco fields of the world. Chesterfields are an achievement.

Advertising Has Made Good

THE wonderful spread and substantial nature of the advertising movement must be viewed in perspective to be appreciated.

As late as thirty years ago newspaper advertising was still so new and untried in business that most merchants held aloof, leaving the field to circus men and patent medicine promoters.

The ad solicitor was looked upon with suspicion, and his status in the community was on a par with the lightning-rod peddler.

To give a contract for newspaper space was rated no better sign of business acumen than buying stock in the flying machine, gas engine, or the Eastman dry plate.

In every age the majority of men refuse to modernize—and interpose their bulk across the path of progress.

They fight all radical innovations, and seek to hold things safely within their ancient bounds.

But in spite of this the race moves on—the Aeroplanes, the Submarine, the Wireless, and a long list of other great ideas force their way thru and get safely across the tape, and obstructionists cannot hold them back; and in this way came ADVERTISING.

Like the tug of a mighty giant on the rope of progress, the power of advertising is felt today around the globe.

The friends and patrons of Printer's Ink have grown from a few into a great Army, which bids fair to bring the world to its feet.

And what has brought about this change in the status of advertising? Just ONE thing COULD have brought it—THE AD HAS MADE GOOD!

Advertising brings revenue to the merchant, and economics, comforts and betterments to the PEOPLE.

It is not a parasite, taking where it gives not back—it is instead a wonderful producer, creating anew—multiplying substance, where before there was none, and lifting mankind into bigger and better standards.
